Rescuers Drill Holes To Reach Three Trapped Miners

40-Ton Rig Employed by Work Crews

Concern Grows for Miner Separated From Other Two

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Determined rescue workers pushed ahead today through fog and dampness with two drilling operations in efforts to reach three miners trapped more than 300 feet underground since last Tuesday. Concern grew for one of them.

Under glaring spotlights in the middle of the night, a 40-ton, electrically operated drilling rig, capable of boring a hole 48 inches in diameter, began operations aimed at opening a hole 24 inches in diameter so the men can be lifted to the surface.

Road Made By Dozer

A road about a quarter of a bulldozer so the drilling apparatus could be moved to the scene.

Simultaneously, in a renewed effort to provide a lifeline to Louis Bova, 42, of Pettersonville, rescuers resumed drilling a twin six-inch hole near the one through which contact was established Sunday night with the trapped men. Bova is separated from the other two by debris. He hasn't been heard from since Monday morning.

H.B. Charnbury, state secretary of mines, said he was quite concerned about Bova.

The large drill began operations at 3:45 a.m. with a 12½ inch bit. Plans were to enlarge the opening to 17½ inches and finally 24 inches.

Charnbury estimated that under the best conditions the 40-ton drill could dig 40 feet an hour. This means it would take a little more than eight hours to go 331 feet where the men are trapped. But one engineer estimated it could be as slow as 20 feet an hour.

Early this morning, David Fellin, 58, of Shepton, one of the trapped miners, suggested workers drill the large escape hole five feet west of the original.

But instead, the drilling began eight feet west of the original hole. Charnbury said officials made the decision to drill eight feet west of the original hole after talking to Fellin.

Engineers explained that if they drilled too close to the original hole it could block the smaller lifeline hole to Fellin, a part owner of the mine, and Henry Throne, 28, of Hazleton. They are together and are reported to be in good spirits.

Hole Began Monday

The twin six-inch hole was begun Monday night but shortly before midnight drilling to Bova was halted at 90 feet because the noise of the drill was interfering with communications to Fellin and Throne.

Food, aspirin, water, a flashlight, chewing tobacco and an electric cord were lowered to Fellin and Throne, who were trapped along a gangway where they fled after the main shaft walls of the mine collapsed.

Communications between the men and rescuers were cut off for about 45 minutes Monday night when a speaker where Fellin and Throne are located failed. Rescuers couldn't relay any information.

Bloodmobile Goal Is Reached Here

Forty-seven walk-in donors saved the day Monday when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visited Salem, with headquarters at the Church of Our Saviour and enabled Salem to meet its quota of 125 pints of blood.

Up until noon when the bloodmobile opened, the program was 50 short of a full complement but last-minute appeals contributed to the success of the drive. Albert Hanna and Donald Shoop manned the mobile loudspeaker.

There were 111 persons scheduled to give blood, 66 short of the required number. Of these there were 16 deferrals and 17 "no-shows."

Test Ban Treaty Opposed by Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Thomas S. Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command, opposes the limited nuclear test ban treaty as "not in the best interests of the United States."

Testifying Monday to a Senate subcommittee, Power broke away from a solid lineup of high military commanders who support the ban on all but underground blasts.

Today, another avowed opponent of the treaty, Dr. Edward Teller, one of the creators of the hydrogen bomb, testifies publicly before a joint meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations, Senate Armed Services and Senate-House Atomic Energy Committees.

Teller, an adviser to the Air Force on ballistic systems and missile sites, told the preparedness subcommittee last week that approval of the treaty would have "grave consequences for the security of the United States and for the free world."

Power's censored testimony is to be made public later, but Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., reported his position. Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., quoted Power as saying, "It would be a great mistake to ratify this treaty," and said he agreed.

The heads of the Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps testified publicly Monday in support of the treaty provided minimum safeguards are guaranteed.

All four agreed with previous testimony by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that they would not have approved the treaty if they had not been assured safeguards would be provided.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, the Air Force chief, said under questioning, however, that if the treaty were still in the proposal stage, "I think I would recommend against it."

LeMay qualified this by saying he would have to give the question, from Thurmond, a lot of thought.

Later, in a closed session, LeMay was reported by the foreign relations committee chairman, J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to have "clarified greatly" his public testimony. "I don't believe he has any real reservations about the treaty over-all," Fulbright said.

Stennis said Power "had less confidence than others that confidence than others that the United States could or would maintain its present undisputed superiority in nuclear power if it

Weather, Be Nice!

Fair Officials Hope Attendance Exceeds 25,000

Columbiana County fair officials — keeping their fingers crossed for pleasant weather — are hoping attendance at this year's fair exceeds the 25,000 mark.

The 118th annual county fair will begin Thursday (Youth Day) and conclude Monday at Lisbon.

The gates will be open Wednesday, which is reserved for placing of the final entries.

Don Myers, Columbiana County extension agent in agriculture, Mrs. Dixie Saltsman, home economics assistant, and Tom Rudebeck, 4-H assistant, said fairgoers will see the largest display of 4-H work ever shown at the county fair.

Sixty-five steers raised by 4-H members will be shown. The animals will be auctioned off Friday at 8 p.m. in the coliseum.

Four attractions are scheduled for the grandstand shows which will begin each night at 8:30.

The 4-H minstrel review show and the selection of a 4-H king and queen will be held Thursday.

On Friday and Saturday evenings, the King Brothers Rodeo Show will be presented.

The horse show will be held Sunday. Also on Sunday are scheduled a concert by the Quaker City Legion Band of Salem at 7 p.m. and a performance by the Veterans of Foreign Wars drill team of Salem at 8 p.m.

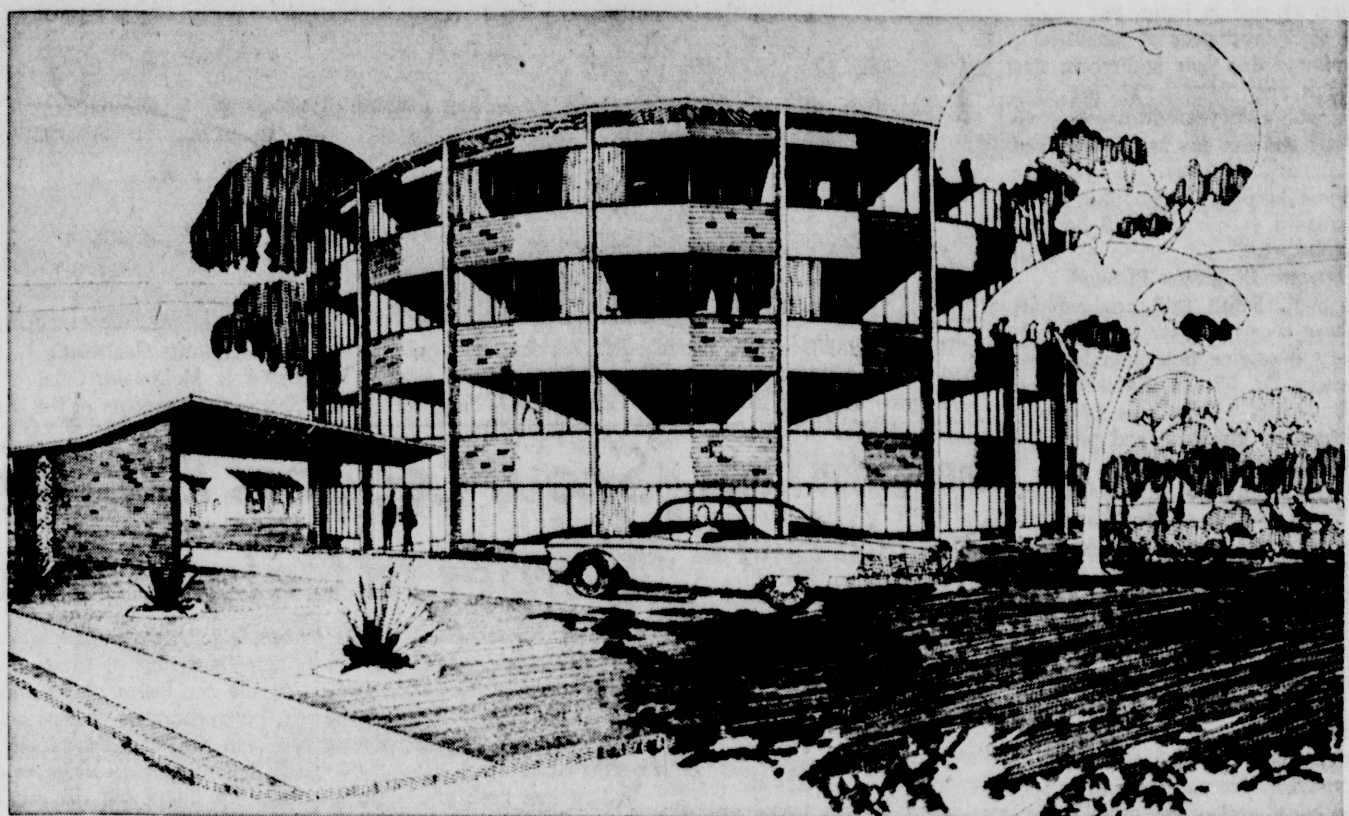

The Gene Holter ostrich races and wild animal show will be held Monday.

The following bands will present programs: Columbiana County 4-H Band, Thursday; Lisbon High School, Friday; Leetonia High School, Saturday; massed county bands, Sunday afternoon; and Salineville High School, Monday.

Directors and officers of this year's fair are:

Ben Weingart, Fairfield Township, president and admissions; and passes chairman; Richard Stockman, Center Township, speed manager, printing and advertising committee chairman; Eddie Thompson, Center Township,

Uniquely-Designed 118-Bed Nursing Home Planned Here

Artist's Sketch Shows How Facility Will Look When Completed Here Early Next Year.

Construction will begin early in September on the Salem Nursing Home, a uniquely-designed facility with accommodations for 118 patients, according to Atty. and Mrs. Herbert E. Arfman, builders of the home.

The $470,000 structure, a four-story circular brick building, will be located on E. Pershing St. directly behind Salem City Hospital.

The general contract for the new facility, designed by architect Jack Holland of Akron, has been let to Bricker & Bricker Construction Co. It is expected that it will take four months to complete.

All of the newest innovations for care of the convalescent and geriatric patient are being incorporated into the building, including a two-way intercom system between rooms and nurses' station, elevator, and a dumb waiter to bring food directly from the kitchen to each floor for distribution to patients.

Facilities will also include 59

Girl Scout Organization Change Nears

All registered adult members of the Salem Council of Girl Scouts are urged to attend the important emergency meeting of the council at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the scout headquarters in the Memorial Building.

The final dissolution of the Salem council will be discussed and an alternate program for girls under supervision of the Salem Area Girls Council Inc., will be proposed.

The Council has come out publicly against the proposed council coverage plan, the Project 31 as proposed by officials at Girl Scout headquarters at New York, which would include Salem in one unified council which would include all councils in Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull and Ashtabula counties, with headquarters in Youngstown.

This action may be taken Wednesday to reorganize the Council and its many troops on a local level, with no association any longer with the Girl Scout headquarters.

Yugoslav Hails Tests Treaty

Nikita Greeted Warmly By Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev flew into Belgrade today and rushed into the outstretched arms of Yugoslav President Tito.

Wives of the two leaders stood by as Khrushchev ran five or six steps from his plane and flung himself into Tito's arms.

Khrushchev and Tito greeted one another like long lost brothers with a cordial bear hug and kisses on the cheeks.

There was no sign of the past animosities that had frequently scarred relations between them since Khrushchev's last visit here in 1956.

In his welcoming speech, Tito hailed Khrushchev's role in achieving a limit nuclear test ban agreement with the United States and Britain.

"We hail your efforts for calming the world situation to make it impossible for world reactionary forces which desire to throw the world into a new catastrophe," Tito said.

Khrushchev, in reply, thanked Tito for inviting him to Yugoslavia and said he was looking forward to continuing talks begun during Tito's visit to Moscow last December.

In an open affront to the Red Chinese, Khrushchev again paid tribute to Yugoslavia as a socialist country.

The Chinese denounce Tito as a deviationist and agent of imperialism who has sabotaged socialism in Yugoslavia.

The Red Chinese snubbed Khrushchev by sending a second secretary to the airport instead of a top embassy official. They merely said the Chinese charge d'affaires, who is in Belgrade, was unable to come.

The two-week schedule for Khrushchev's visit leaves ample time for the leaders to explore the growing reconciliation between their brands of communism and its effect on Khrushchev's relations with Red China and Tito's with the West.

The visit is certain to provoke new Communist Chinese outbursts against the Soviet premier.

The official Yugoslav news agency, Tanjug, emphasized that Khrushchev's visit, his third to Yugoslavia since 1955, follows those by the presidents of Finland, Mexico, the United Arab Republic and Indonesia; U.N. Secretary-General U Thant; U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and a host of other dignitaries.

The low-key propaganda had this apparent theme: Khrushchev is just one of Yugoslavia's many friends and his visit does not mean Yugoslavia is returning to

Captured Midland, Pa., Police Nab Prison Farm Escapees

MIDLAND, Pa. (AP)—Two escapees from a Mansfield, Ohio, prison farm were in jail in this Beaver County town today following their capture by two policemen, one of whom was wounded in a struggle.

Police captured Gary Risher, 24, and Dennis Neely, 22, Monday night after receiving an anonymous telephone call that two men who escaped from Grafton honor farm were in Midland.

Sgt. George Tepovich and Officer William Reich spotted the pair on the street and arrested them. They searched them and found a 5½-inch dagger in Risher's belt.

While they were driving to the jail, though, Neely, sitting in the back seat with Tepovich, pulled a dagger and said

"Drop that gun or I'll push this knife through your stomach."

Tepovich was cut below the right knee in an ensuing struggle, but Neely was subdued. The sergeant was treated at a hospital and released.

Yearly Meeting Held In Damascus

Hundreds at Opening Session of Friends

Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends opened its 150th session in near-by Damascus at 8:15 this morning with hundreds of delegates and representatives of its 89 churches in attendance.

The YM churches are located in Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Virginia and Rhode Island and Ontario Canada. Missionary outreach is in India, Nepal and Taiwan.

The first session of OYM was held on Aug. 14, 1813, at the Short Creek Quarterly Meeting House, near Mt. Pleasant. Historians say that there were 2,000 to 3,000 attending.

Four missionaries from Formosa (Taiwan) and a college president will highlight the week's program. They are Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. DeVol and Rev. and Mrs. Russell Zinn, missionaries, and Dr. Milo C. Ross of Newberg, Oregon. Dr. Ross is president of George Fox College, at Newberg.

Rev. Harold B. Winn, pastor of the Salem First Friends Church, is beginning his second year as presiding clerk and will direct the general business sessions.

Rev. Chester Stanley of Damascus, general superintendent of OYM, read his annual report at this morning's session, a major business of the week was revealed, and credentials of visitors read.

Ohio College Grads Named Grid Mentors

Industrial Arts, Fourth St. School Instructors Picked

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

Two new Ohio college graduates were named to the Salem football coaching staff Monday night by the Board of Education, completing the mentor lineup in advance of school's opening 15 days hence.

Robert Carbaugh, of Toledo, who will be 27 Sunday, was employed as freshman coach and junior high physical education instructor. Walter Newton is the other freshman football coach.

Added to the varsity football staff as an assistant was Richard Schulz of Columbus, a June graduate of Ohio University.

Both Carbaugh and Schulz were named upon the recommendations of new head football coach Don Clarico.

Carbaugh, a 6'2, 220-pound basketball player at Bowling Green State University, will receive his bachelor's degree in education Thursday and is expected to arrive in Salem Friday. He attended Kent State University from 1958-59, then enrolled at BGSU.

Schulz was expected to arrive here today to become Clarico's fourth varsity aide, along with Don Bennett, Merlin Davidson and Mike Guappone. The new mentor for three years was an all-Mid American Conference tackle while at OU. He played in the Ohio North-South High School all-star game under Cincinnati was named to teach junior high industrial arts in place of Thomas Starkey who left to accept a guidance position in Pennsylvania. Coy last year taught eighth grade shop.

Roger Bacon's Bron Brave won 18-0. The 1963-64 teaching staff was completed with the employment of two other persons last night. Perry Coy of 251 Jennings Ave.

Named Primary Teacher Mrs. Margaret Gorby of 154 Benton Rd. was appointed as a primary teacher at Fourth St. School. She attended Asbury College, Kent University and Youngstown University. Her experience includes teaching at West Point, Winona, Clarkson, United Local, California Kiddie College and Rogers.

Mrs. Catherine Crowgey was employed as secretary at Prospect School and Mrs. Lydia Coy was hired as Senior High School secretary.

Schools Readied for Opening

Reilly Stadium Work Progress Reported

School Supt. Paul E. Smith reported at the Board of Education meeting Monday night that improvements to Reilly Stadium are being completed well in advance of the opening game Sept. 6.

The total cost of improvements, which include a mobile lunch stand already constructed, is $3,145.33.

The stadium resurfacing, also finished, cost $2,297.39, including $870 for labor, $1,414.39 for materials and $13 for rent of a cement mixer.

Smith said about 75 worn seat boards are being replaced and all the boards in the stadium are being repainted and re-marked at a total cost of $474. Material comes to $119, labor $180 and paint $175.

School maintenance men built the mobile lunch stand at a cost of $374.

Clyde Wright, maintenance supervisor, is in the process of making a scale drawing of the stadium track after which athletic director Frederick Cope will make necessary recommendations to assure the district AA and county track meets will continue in Salem.

Plan to Re-Seed Field

Tentative plans to renovate the weedy, unfit football practice field were made by the board. Most members favored plowing up the field and re-planting grass seed to develop a tough turf. Meanwhile, Coach Clarico has decided to hold all practice sessions at Centennial Park while the sod is being re-established.

Supt. Smith also reported on summer re-conditioning of the schools. He said all buildings are "clean and ready to go" for opening day Sept. 4. An extra basement room at Prospect School and the room at the Baptist Church are also in shape to receive pupils coming back.

The boilers, stokers and fire boxes at the Junior High building have been repaired at a cost of $1,968, Smith announced. This amount has been spent annually on the boilers, and the administrator expressed hope that a replacement can be made on a "pay-as-you-go" plan.

He said the system is outmoded and its flaws cancel out part of the value of installing storm windows, which is now under way to conserve heat. A heating engineer will be brought in to give recommendations on the installation of new boilers.

Smith also said lightning damage which occurred in his office several months ago is just now being fixed.

The school head made these other announcements:

1. The ungraded school program last year extending through the first three grades, will be expanded to include the fourth grades at all elementary schools.

2. A re-grouping of pupils in fourth through sixth grade arithmetic will take place. Pupils regardless of grade will be grouped according to mathematical ability.

The hope is to start some of the most able pupils on contemporary math.

3. Primary and elementary report cards have been changed to be more helpful to both parents and teachers.

4. Six classes will be set up in Illinois math. Two each will be formed in 8th and 9th grades and in the senior high.

5. The junior high language program is growing so that three full-time language teachers are required. Last year the smaller program required only a full-time teacher and two half time. In junior high German classes 138 are enrolled; in French, 115; in Spanish, 45, and in Latin, 85.

6. A third year of language is offered this year in French, German and Spanish at the high school. Last year third-year students were in the same class and tutored alternately. This year the three language classes, due to increased enrollment, will be separate.

Teacher Programs Planned

Supt. Smith said arrangements have been made for two elementary in-service programs for teachers. Dr. William Rains of Ohio University will be here for workshops on guidance and parent-teacher conferences Sept. 23-24.

A four-day program with Dr. James Hedden of Kent State University has been set up for Oct. 7 and 21 and Nov. 4 and 18. The program's topic will be "Contemporary Mathematics in the Elementary School."

School Orchestra Discussed

The possibility of re-organizing an orchestra in both the junior and senior high schools was discussed by the superintendent, but no board action was taken to reinstate such a musical aggregation. Smith felt that bands have held the musical spotlight because of their glamor, but that a good school music program should include an orchestra, especially for those musicians who specialize in string instruments or others not fitted for band.

He suggested to the board the possibility of hiring a Youngstown string instrument teacher in elementary grades with the eventual goal of organizing junior and senior high orchestras. Action was deferred.

The board adjourned open to convene again Monday to consider an anticipated report from Professor William H. Roe of Michigan State University, who along with fellow workers, is preparing recommendations on a long-range upgrading of the Salem school system.

Further discussion is also expected on the renewal or replacement of the junior high heating system. Bids on coal will be accepted from companies until Monday noon, Smith said. Undecided last night on the choice of a delegate to the Ohio School Board Meeting at Columbus, the board is expected to make its choice for the Nov. 12-14 meet on Monday.

JFK Considering Swing Into West

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is considering a swing into the West that would give him a chance to look over efforts to preserve natural resources, natural wonders and wilderness areas — and to get some political exposure in advance of the 1964 campaign.

Under present planning, he would venture into Arizona, the home of Sen. Barry Goldwater, regarded as the top contender for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Nothing has been settled, but the talk has reached the point that the White House is reported on reliable authority to have asked the Interior Department several weeks ago to outline a possible journey. And some advance work on a trip may be undertaken shortly.

The trip may be undertaken in October and might take Kennedy by plane, train and auto from Grand Coulee Dam in the Northwest to Glen Canyon Dam in Arizona. Ceremonies are on tap at each place in October.

Kennedy recently canceled an engagement to appear Oct. 7 in Atlanta at the celebration of the 75th anniversary of Georgia Tech.

The White House gave a rather vague explanation that Kennedy might be busy elsewhere at that time.

The trip, one administration official said, would be "oriented primarily to conservation." It might last four or five days.

And while conservation might get the obvious emphasis, Kennedy still would be showing up in an area where he would hope to do better politically next year than he did in 1960, particularly since some Southern Democrats are saying the President might not fare so well in their realm.

Kennedy carried Nevada, New Mexico and Washington in 1960. He lost Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Utah and Wyoming.

Apparently there is no thought that Kennedy might be able to visit anywhere near all of these states this fall. Some of those familiar with the preliminary work say he could be expected to go to Washington, Utah, Colorado and Arizona.

Board Makes Final Plans for Fair

LISBON—Final plans and programs for the annual fair were completed when the Columbiana County Fair Board met Monday evening in the secretary's office at the fairgrounds.

The Farm Bureau was given permission to hold a family picnic and wiener roast at the county fairgrounds Sept. 7.

The board discussed personnel to be employed for the fair and also set up their duties.

Admission for this year's fair will be 75 cents for persons over 12 years of age. Children under 12 will be admitted free each day. Cars will be admitted free this year for the first time.

Grandstand show prices were set as follows: children under six, free; six through high school-age, 50 cents; and adults, $1.

Butler Township Trustees Convene

Butler Township's trustees authorized the purchase of 200 tons of slag and payment of bills amounting to $1,057 when they met in regular session yesterday at the township hall, Clerk Ernest Moser reported.

The trustees also learned that the Winona-Bridgewater Rd. west of the Butler Grange hall has been bermed and is ready for a sealer coat and that berming is to be started on Whinnery Rd. south of Winona. County road crews are expected to apply the sealer within the next two weeks.

The trustees also reported that weed and brush cutting along township roads has begun.

The possibility of purchasing an ash spreader for use this winter was also discussed, however, no action was taken.

Scout Leaders Explain Merger In Columbiana

By MRS. CHARLES WRIGHT

COLUMBIANA — Forty-five persons attended Monday's meeting at the high school on the proposed merger of Columbiana's 250 Girl Scouts and Brownies.

Letters had been mailed to local organizations explaining the need for the issue to be aired and asking their cooperation.

Mrs. L. A. Way, Girl Scout intertroop committee representative, served as spokesman, explaining the ultimatum issued by National Girl Scout Headquarters in which the local unit was informed it would have to merge with the troops in Trumbull, Mahoning and possibly Ashtabula Counties.

According to Mrs. Way, the local Girl Scout intertroop committees had attended various meetings with executives to learn just what advantages could be gained from the merger which is known as "Project 31."

Merger policy, as it now stands, decrees that the leaders must attend out-of-town meetings and that proceeds from the annual cookie sale, Girl Scout dues and $1,300 which is given to the Columbiana Girl Scouts annually by the Community Chest, would no longer remain with the local troops for their own use but would become part of the general fund.

MRS. WAY TOLD the group that the representatives attending the meeting could find few advantages of the merger as projects would then be carried out according to metropolitan policy under paid leadership rather than kept on a small community level.

Under the existing plan, volunteer leaders are permitted to conduct meetings and projects as they see fit.

A question and answer period followed the presentation. Mrs. Way was asked how the girls and leaders involved felt about the merger. Her answer was that if the decision was made to merge, the leaders now in charge would resign and that the girls were generally willing to do what the leaders decided was best.

Mrs. Way also explained that the work done in Girl Scouts would be applicable to Campfire work. She said that at the present time Columbiana and Leetonia were the only communities in Columbiana County now affiliated with Girl Scouts.

OTHER AREA GROUPS have been unable to be present.

Spokesmen were present from the Newcomers Club, American Legion Auxiliary, Rotary Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Presbyterian, Lutheran and Methodist Churches.

A final meeting of troop leaders and troop and intertroop committee members will be held at 7:30 p. m. Aug. 27 at the home of Mrs. William Houlette of Route 7.

A NURSERY SCHOOL, headed by Mrs. Paul E. Blackburn, is scheduled to open Sept. 9 at her home at 211 N. Main St.

Registration of boys and girls from three to five years of age can be made by calling Mrs. Blackburn. Classes will be held from 12:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Pairs 'N Spares Class of Jerusalem Lutheran Church will hold a corn roast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hawkins at 8 p. m. Aug. 27. Devotions will be conducted by Mrs. Elmon Smith. Hosts are Mr. and Mrs. Ryan Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins.

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE DOUGLASS will be hosts at a corn roast at their home for members of the Friendly Folks Class of Jerusalem Lutheran Church at 6:30 p. m. Aug. 30. A panel discussion on parish education will follow the corn roast.

Participating in the discussion are the following persons: Sunday School, Henry Todd; Adult Study Class and Confirmation, Rev. Thomas E. Rehl; Parish Education and New Constitution, and Teacher Training, Arthur Hickman; Choir, Harry Heltzel; Vacation Bible School and Junior Choir, Mrs. Karl Theiss; Junior Lutherans, Mrs. Ray Rock; and Scouting, Melvin Nulf.

Twenty-two members of the family of Michael Theiss and the late Anna Theiss met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Theiss of Market St., Columbiana, Sunday for their fifth annual reunion.

Members were present from Hubbard, Brookfield and Jamestown, Pa. One brother and his family, residing in Holmen, Wis.

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — State troopers, armed with tear gas, today stood watch over the streets of this Louisiana town where blistering tear gas volleys drove back some 400 chanting Negroes.

Police arrested 17 marching demonstrators Monday night. Then, they hauled all but one in a school bus to jail in nearby Donaldsonville. A local doctor was released on $300 bond.

Officers said the group—which included James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality — would have overburdened the crowded jail in Plaquemine where Negro leaders are pushing a voter registration drive.

Three tear gas forays broke the Negroes' march to the City Hall of this Mississippi River town of 8,000—some 20 miles southwest of the capital at Baton Rouge.

Police Chief Dennis Songy said he ordered officers to fire after the marchers broke their agreement not to sing. One bomb burst near a small Negro boy, toppling him. He staggered away.

Police did not wear gas masks. The fumes sent tears streaming down their faces.

Gordon Carey, CORE national program director, said he would demand release of the prisoners. He scheduled a meeting today in the Plymouth Rock Baptist Church, where demonstrators began their march after listening to Farmer speak.

Officers said the 16 will be brought back here Thursday for a city court hearing. They, and Dr. Bertrand Tyson, on bond, are charged with inciting a riot and disturbing the peace.

Also jailed were Ronnie Moore, CORE state field secretary; and Rev. J.W. Davis, at whose church the rally was held.

Farmer, who arrived Monday to map strategy for voter registration drives in parishes (counties) surrounding the capital, called for economic boycotts Monday night.

He charged Plaquemine city officials with gerrymandering the city to deprive Negroes of their vote.

Lisbon Men Fined For Contributing

LISBON — Edward Groff, 21, and George Dotson, 21, both of 330 N. Market St. were each fined $100 at a hearing Monday before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin for contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old Lisbon boy.

They were cited for the theft of gasoline from Dunn Trucking Co. trucks used to transport gas transmission pipes for the Tennessee Gas lines. The trucks were parked near railroad depot.

The two men also were given suspended 90-day jail sentences. Dotson's driver's license was suspended for 90 days. Groff, who has no license, was ordered not to apply for one for 90 days.

The 14-year-old youth will have a hearing before Judge Tobin Aug. 29.

Gov. Wallace Prepares Anti-Rights Proposals

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama prepared today to introduce anti-integration resolutions in the Southern Governors Conference despite pleas that the meeting be devoted to non-controversial matters.

The Wallace resolutions already have drawn pickets to this mountain resort town.

About 100 Negroes and several white demonstrators marched on Monday to the gate of the Greenbrier Hotel, where the governors were in session. They carried signs denouncing Wallace and Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi.

"They're just practicing up for Washington," quipped Wallace, referring to the scheduled Aug. 28 civil rights march on the capital.

The demonstrators were met at the gate by Gov. W. W. Barron of West Virginia. He agreed to meet with spokesmen for the group and the marchers dispersed.

After an hour-long session in his hotel suite, Barron said agreement had been reached on some areas of discussion and another meeting would be held.

Wallace planned to offer resolutions condemning the Aug. 28 march, use of federal troops or National Guardsmen by the President to handle racial troubles, and the public accommodations section of President Kennedy's civil rights bill.

The resolutions will go to a committee to be appointed by the conference chairman, Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, who told the opening session: "If we engage in debate over controversial issues, we can cause division and possibly destroy the basic usefulness and purpose of the conference."

Gov. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, the only Republican in the 17-state conference, agreed with Faubus, saying the resolutions "could very well halt any progress we might make."

Mississippi's Barnett said, "I think we ought to debate these matters. I believe in fighting it out."

The resolutions committee will make its report Wednesday, the final day of the meeting.

Barnett suggested Monday that the nation's Negro population be divided by the states.

He told newsmen the Department of Labor should relocate Negroes to give each state 10 per cent of the Negro population.

This would mean that Mississippi, with 42 per cent Negro population, would lose 87,000 persons, Barnett said.

No Quorum, Board Takes No Action

LISBON — No official action was taken Monday evening at the meeting of the Columbiana County Board of Health because the only two members present, Atty. Howard Cole of Lisbon and Glen Hawkins, New Waterford RD 1, did not constitute a quorum.

Elmer (Gene Cover, county plumbing inspector, gave a report on his survey of Homeworth's sewage problem. He reported 44 houses have septic tanks only, 19 homes have septic tanks and leaching beds and four have outside plumbing. Waste materials from houses with no leaching beds runs directly into the storm sewer and into the creek, causing an odor when the creek becomes low.

Monthly reports were also given by Cover, Harry Stockdale, sanitarian, and Mrs. Violet Peterson, health nurse.

The Columbiana County Health Department issued 64 plumbing and 54 sewage permits during the month.

The tuberculosis clinic reported it gave 136 X-rays, made 125 nursing visits and gave 151 tuberculin skin tests. Three new tuberculosis cases in the county were reported.

Bills of $3,372.37 were authorized to be paid.

The board's next meeting will be Sept. 16 at 8 p.m.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR 30 DAYS — These maps, based on those supplied by the United States Weather Bureau, forecast the probable rainfall and temperatures for the next 30 days.

Bantam Showman

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—As he nears 64, money is by no means everything to Billy Rose, one of the biggest little firecrackers that ever exploded on Broadway.

The bantam-sized producer set $50 million as his life goal some years ago, and probably is about halfway there.

Right now, however, one of his chief pleasures is raising pigeons on a five-acre island he owns off Connecticut.

"I'm doing some of the things I couldn't do as a kid on the Lower East Side," explained Billy. "I'm also raising some decorative birds and a herd of spotted deer."

Rose had no time when growing up for the ordinary joys of childhood. At 17 he was the world's shorthand speed champ.

In the years since then he wrote 500 songs, ran 11 cabarets, produced shows that over a 30-year period played to 100 million people, turned out one of the most successful columns in the history of journalism, made a fortune in Wall Street, assembled a noted art collection, and had three wives.

Today he lives alone in his huge, five-story Manhattan mansion — "I don't know how many rooms it has, I never counted them" — with a 3½-pound Yorkshire terrier named Jumbo.

"She gets three tablespoons of minced chicken once a day," he said. "I've had dogs for a long time. If you overfeed them, you lose them."

Billy dwells quietly on a single floor in his big museumlike home. The rooms have a barber chair, a gymnasium, and an old high desk on which Jonathan Swift is reputed to have written "Gulliver's Travels."

Once or twice a week Rose has a couple or two in for dinner. Once or twice a week he goes out on the town.

"I'd rather be hit with a baseball bat than own another night club," he remarked.

"On Thanksgiving I have a party for all the strays I know, and on Christmas Eve I have a bustup for maybe 100 people and their kids."

His stock market investments, running his two theaters, and writing occasional magazine articles take up most of his time.

He's also flirting with the idea of producing a musical with Bert Lahr called "Foxy." And he's building an outdoor art museum in Jerusalem to which he is contributing his million-dollar collection of sculptures.

The public image of Rose, which he himself created, is that of a jack-in-the-box showman, flamboyant and a bit on the shrill side. But he rejects the idea that he is either "a tough guy," or unduly cynical.

Rose says wealth hasn't made him lonely and that the only money that really counts is "the 11 bucks you have in your pocket when you really need it."

But there's something Billy would like right now—to be married again.

"The single life," he said, "is like a red and gold box of Christmas candy. When you open it, all it holds is a couple of lousy bon-bons."

Which of these 3 investment goals is yours?

Are you one of the many people considering investing today? Then you'll want to be sure you start off in the right way—with care, with a plan, and a goal.

The right way is to decide on one of these three objectives (or a combination of them):

1. Second income. Many people invest with this aim. They consider common stocks with good dividend records.

2. Increasing value of stock. Some people are less interested in dividends now, more attracted to companies that they think have possibility of future growth. In buying such stock, they hope the business will prosper and that the value of their stock will increase.

3. More stability of investment. Other people buy high grade bonds, which generally offer more stability of principal and income.

We will be glad to discuss your goals with you—and help you select stocks and bonds we think best suited to meet them. There is no charge for this service.

Why Hold the Debate?

If it can be taken for granted that U.S. Senate is going to ratify the nuclear test ban treaty, the question is why there should be a protracted debate.

The answer is that the debate is part of the process of deliberative government.

Its purpose is not only to enable senators to make up their minds about the proposed treaty but, more importantly in his instance, to help the citizenry understand what the treaty will do if and when it is ratified.

The established job of the political opposition is to challenge all proposals or collective action and make their backers prove their merit. Senate Republicans have a job to do and are showing every indication of being willing to do it thoroughly.

ONLY IN THIS way can Americans hope to find out what is involved in this apparent rapprochement with their cold war "enemy."

Only in this way can they learn what is behind this significant language in the preamble to the treaty.

"Proclaiming as their principal aim the speediest possible achievement of an agreement on general and complete disarmament under strict international control in accordance with the objectives of the United Nations, which would put an end to the armaments race and eliminate the incentive to the production and testing of all kinds of weapons, including nuclear weapons . . ."

This is part of the language to which dozens of governments, following the lead of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union now have subscribed. It means that the nuclear test ban is intended to be one step in a long road that would lead to disarmament, if followed to the end.

THERE IS every prospect the Senate will ratify the treaty, following discussion and debate.

Thus, there is every prospect that the American people will have a thorough understanding of what has been proposed and what is likely to be accomplished.

This is the way it must be done. There is no other way in a deliberative government.

A Bureaucrat for Every Taxpayer

A record 9.5 million civilians now are on the public payrolls and, if the present trend continues, there will be one government bureaucrat for every four workers in private industry by 1980, the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York reports.

The bank report is occasioned by the Labor Department announcement last week that an all-time high of 70.9 million Americans had jobs in July and unemployment dropped 500,000 to 4.3 million.

...NOT COUNTING men and women in military service, 13.5 per cent of the nation's workers are in government service," the report reveals. It adds that since 1955, the federal work force has increased 8 per cent to 2.5 million but the real jump has been in the number of employees of state and local governments, which has increased 45 per cent to 7 million.

Contrary to popular belief, the jump in the federal payroll hasn't been in defense—an impression Washington appears willing to create.

The facts reveal that since the Korean War when defense accounted for 47 per cent of all federal workers, the number of people now engaged in our protection has declined steadily until now it amounts to only 41 per cent.

ONE OF THE paradoxes of bureaucracy is illustrated in the federal Department of Agriculture. While the number of men on farms in the United States has been steadily decreasing, the number of employees in the Agriculture Department has been steadily increasing—a condition so ludicrous that one congressman, with tongue in cheek, was prompted to remark that Congress should limit the number of farm bureaucrats to the number of farmers.

As these conditions continue to worsen, Americans in private industry increasingly are being burdened with taxes to support administrators administering onerous laws to keep themselves on the public payrolls. We wonder at what time there will be one bureaucrat for every taxpayer.

Watch Out for Backfires

A reported hoax and a former Communist are involved in separate incidents that must have conscientious civil rights leaders in a tizzy.

In California a young mother disclosed that she was tarred and feathered and left in a burning house as a hoax to help integrate an all-white neighborhood.

In Cleveland it was disclosed that a former Communist has hired two buses for the Negro march on Washington Aug. 28.

Both disclosures could give the civil rights movement a big setback.

Nothing discredits a campaign of any kind more than a lie. And if law enforcement officials substantiate that the Walnut Calif. incident was indeed a hoax then the civil rights movement will have suffered.

Americans, regardless of the color of their skin, don't cotton to hoaxes, especially when laws are broken in the process.

The Cleveland disclosure puts a red tinge on the Aug. 28 march because of a former Communist. If he no longer has Communist connections, as the Congress of Racial Racial Equality (CORE) claims, all well and good.

But the fact remains that he served a federal prison term on conspiracy charges under the Taft-Hartley Act and his motives in the Negro march automatically become suspect.

Communists thrive on unrest and turmoil and there is certainly a degree of both in the forthcoming Washington demonstration. There is every reason to expect Communists and Communist sympathizers to capitalize on the march. If they infiltrate, the risk of violence becomes greater than it ordinarily would be in a demonstration of this sort.

All of which means that leaders of the capital march will have to exercise extreme vigilance to keep the demonstration from backfiring horribly.

Strange, but a fresh youngster is usually spoiled.

If a boss were as ignorant as some of his employees think he is he wouldn't be boss.

Love, Italian Style

By Ann Geracimos

Love Italian Style is as much a farce as Divorce Italian Style. Carolyn Gaiser decided after two years in Rome. Two years of trading gossip along the Via Veneto, of parading intellectual patter in the cafes, and she came home. She had had it. "I'd exhausted all the possibilities," she says, blonde curls shaking at her cheekbones.

"The greatest display of tenderness shown you by a man is over how you wind your spaghetti. Women are decorative objects taken to restaurants to pat their lovers' elbows and look as much like the Mona Lisa as possible. Silently.

"If you tell an Italian at dinner you feel sad, he will say 'please do not interrupt this pleasant occasion by bringing up an unpleasant emotion.' If you say you have a problem that you wish to discuss with him, he will invite you to leave some sauce. A woman does not impose herself on male conversation, no matter what."

Rome is getting a fair share of starry-eyed post-college strays these days.

Once Paris was the glittering magnet to which expatriates flocked for temporary transfusions of the spirit. Now it's Rome. Credit the Italian filmmakers.

THEIR STORIES of la dolce vita in present-day Italy, ironic or not, are irresistible publicity.

After Swarthmore and after the Yale Drama School, Carolyn was convinced films looked greener and fresher in Italy, so she got herself a Fulbright scholarship in cinematography and took off.

She was supposed to study Italian film techniques. Her specialty was scriptwriting. This, she says, consisted of "standing around movie sets, drinking coffee and being treated like royalty." She traveled with film companies to Sicily, to Milan and around Rome, meeting the directors Fellini, Pasolini, Rossellin and others.

In Rome she made the acquaintance, if that's the word, of as many artistic folks as possible including the leading literary lion, Alberto Moravia. "I met him in a bookshop 'I am Alberto Moravia,' he said. 'Have you read my books?'"

She found Italian women "very difficult to get close to. They suspect a foreigner will take away their men. Men are very precious there. Men are to marry. A married woman gets much more respect. And once she's married, a woman immediately relaxes into her domestic role.

"It was a long time before I was invited home by an Italian girl. I soon found out why. The apartment was dreary, the food almost unbearable. Yet the girl was strikingly well-dressed and she owned her own car. Appearances count for everything. The Italian idea of dignity is one of putting your best face to the world."

"And if the Italian woman isn't beautiful, she might as well forget it. Charm won't help her at all."

WOMEN HAVE ways of retaliating, too. "Two men told me their fiancées had dropped them for men with more money."

"At least there is no sense of failure in Italy," she says. "No anxiety neurosis about not working up to one's level. An exalted sense of ego prevents it."

But if the romantic life in Rome isn't altogether ideal, it's always around and always interesting.

"Being a foreigner abroad is pretty much carte blanche. You always feel something is about to happen to you." But being a native in New York, she's found, is like getting out of the bathtub to answer the phone.

"In New York you always feel a little off-center and out of things."

'Law of the Land' Demands Obedience of All

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Much talk is heard and much is written about the obligation of everybody to obey "the law of the land." But who says what is

"the law of the land?" and if the Supreme Court does, then shouldn't the President and the Congress obey it, too? These questions arise despite rulings in previous decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, Congress is being urged by the civil rights laws which are based on the speculation that the high court will reverse itself.

When, however, Gov. Wallace of Alabama and Gov. Barnett of Mississippi endeavored to secure a reversal of Supreme Court decision by challenging them in an orderly way in the lower courts, each of the two governors was widely denounced as defying "the law of the land."

It's being openly asserted now by exponents of the proposed civil rights legislation that the Supreme Court will in due course invalidate or reverse its 1883 decision denying Congress the right to use the 14th Amendment to pass federal laws that would, for example, punish a hotel owner if he chose his own customers.

The contention advanced in administration circles is that the 1883 decision is "out-of-date" and that the Supreme Court will "modernize" its rulings.

The same 1883 ruling of the high court implied, incidentally, that vehicles or "public conveyances" passing from one state to another might be regulated under the commerce clause of the Constitution. But there is nothing in that or any other decision which justifies a confident assumption that the selection of guests by managers of hotels can be regulated by the federal government under any present clause of the Constitution.

WHAT BECOMES, then, of "the law of the land" and the oath to support and defend the Constitution which all members of Congress, cabinet officers and the president of the United States take when they assume office?

Can the Department of Justice in all conscience recommend passage by Congress of a law which is of doubtful constitutionality and do so because an ideologically sympathetic Supreme Court is expected to uphold such a statute? Should members of Congress vote for legislation which they believe may be held unconstitutional?

Are the justices supposed to forget their oath of office and decide cases in time with "the spirit of the times"?

Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States, in a speech in Chicago a few days ago at the dedication ceremonies of the American Bar Center, had some pertinent things to say on the general subject of "legislating" by the courts. He declared:

"Our system of government is being challenged from abroad and readjustments of one kind or another are facing us at home . . . Yet it would be shortsighted not to recognize that times like these are bound to produce temptations and pressures to depart from or temporize with traditional constitutional precepts or even to short-cut the processes of change which the Constitution establishes. It's the special responsibility of lawyers, whether on or off the bench, to see to it that such things do not happen."

JUSTICE HARLAN said one of the current notions is that "deficiencies in our society which have failed of correction by other means should find a cure in the courts," and he cited "impatience with the slowness of political solutions generally."

He said there is an "urge for quick and uncompromising panaceas for things that call for reform."

That this view of the "cosmic place of the judiciary is not only inconsistent with the principles of American democratic society but ultimately threatens the integrity of the judicial system itself."

There is plainly a tendency today to "pass the buck" to the Supreme Court. Justice Harlan cited the general expectation that an inadequate saute or one hat is "manifestly unwise, harsh, or out-of-date" will be "abrogated by the exercise of the power of judicial review."

Back in 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt urged members of Congress to pass a certain law irrespective of their doubts as to its constitutionality. When he didn't like subsequent court decisions—including one in 1936 invalidating that same law—he tried unsuccessfully in 1937 to get a law through Congress to enable him to enlarge the Supreme Court from nine to a possible 15 members, so he could appoint a new majority to do his bidding.

Mr. Roosevelt argued that the process of amending the Constitution in the way prescribed in that document itself was too "time-consuming" and "difficult." He preferred, in effect, amendment of the Constitution by the judiciary.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS have passed since these recommendations were made to a nationwide radio audience by a president of the United States who had sworn to uphold the Constitution, but there is still a feeling that the Supreme Court must respond to the political pressure of the executive.

The New Frontiersmen and the New Dealers talk the same language—that no matter how the Constitution has been previously construed in the decisions of the Supreme Court, government officials, even though sworn to uphold "the law of the land," must press for new decisions to reverse those of the past.

Justice Harlan's advice to the nation is to avoid the transfer of legislative power to the courts. For, he says, "a function more ill-suited to judges can hardly be imagined, situated as they are, and should be, aloof from the political arena and beholden to no one for their conscientious conduct."

Reds Control Brazil Unions

By VICTOR RIESEL

SAO PAULO, Brazil

One of the world's richest men really controls organized labor in this vast nation. He is Brazil's biggest landowner. His latest purchase of a parcel of real estate is made up of one and a quarter million lush acres in the state of Mato Grosso. He has at least 25 other such ranches. He is a heavy investor in industry. Yet he has been and is collaborating with one of the toughest, oldest and best organized Communist labor networks I have encountered anywhere on the globe.

He is Joao Goulart, president of Brazil.

The Brazilian labor party is merely one of his ventures. The only other man who has any effective influence in the weird labor structure here is a veteran comrade of N. Lenin and J. Stalin, a Communist chief by name of Luiz Carlos Prestes, head of the allegedly illegal Communist party of Brazil. President Goulart gives him utter freedom to operate illegally.

The president's power over all labor in this sprawling land which borders on almost all other South American countries, springs from a labor code copied almost word for word, from the Fascist corporate state law of Mussolini's Italy.

THUS NO UNION can function, no union chief can hold office without the specific permission of President Goulart and his minister of labor.

Yet the Communists are permitted to control three of the five basic union confederations of Brazil. In this delightful city in the "Texas" of Brazil the Communists are allowed to control labor in factories employing as many as 12,000 people.

The Communist apparatus controls oil refining through its domination of the workers of the big bras employing some 75,000 workers.

The Communists also run unions in metalurgy (steel and auto machinery), shipbuilding, coastal shipping, waterfront operations and railroads.

Since most of these are industries dominated by government ownership, the unions in them could not have fallen under Communist direction without government encouragement.

Furthermore there are "chain-strikes" in these fields, though strikes are specifically prohibited by law. The union leadership behaves itself if it wants, first, to stay in business and, second, to get a good cut of the imposto from the government.

There is still another technique. The unions are supposed to file returns on the use of the money. The reports go to the Labor Ministry. The documents are put in the files. When a union leader gets tough, the file can be taken out and checked.

Any slight error makes the union and its leaders subject to fine, jail, suspension, ouster or even complete dissolution.

So the union chief is called in. He is shown the faulty document. It is suggested that he send his union members into a demonstration or show some political support. He generally does.

The government also puts union men on federal payrolls. There are only three or four nationally prominent labor chiefs who have eschewed such subtle forms of capture. The union chiefs who take such jobs (sometimes as many as three or four different ones at the same time) in government and essential industries.

President Goulart and his labor minister could remove any labor leader violating this section. Yet such strikes have been more than tolerated. Stoppages in these fields have frequently been for political purpose.

THE IRON-HANDED control of unions by the president is clothed by a velvet glove within a velvet glove. Here is how it is done:

Under the Mussolini-type law there is something here called the "imposto sindical." This is a "union tax."

Actually it is simply the expropriation by the government of a single day's pay a year taken from all workers except farm hands, domestics and employees of the state. The day's pay is taken out at the end of March.

It goes into a central fund. This is then distributed by formula to unions which have been officially recognized by the Goulart government as representing an entire area of production or commerce.

For example, a metal union will receive a sum to cover all workers in the metal trades in a city and region such as this one even if tens of thousands of factory people are not in the union.

Actually since the government assesses them, only a handful are willing to join a union and pay additional dues. The Communist minority, of course, always joins up and votes.

The huge sums drawn from millions of workers through the "imposto sindical" are supposed to go for social services operated by the union and for maintenance of the union itself.

Only a handful knows what happens to the money—and there is no doubt that much of it goes for political activity.

IF A UNION doesn't follow the right line and back the government, its charter can be revoked. It cannot function without the specific permission of the minister of labor, appointed by President Goulart.

So the union's leadership behaves itself if it wants, first, to stay in business and, second, to get a good cut of the imposto from the government.

There is still another technique. The unions are supposed to file returns on the use of the money. The reports go to the Labor Ministry. The documents are put in the files. When a union leader gets tough, the file can be taken out and checked.

Any slight error makes the union and its leaders subject to fine, jail, suspension, ouster or even complete dissolution.

So the union chief is called in. He is shown the faulty document. It is suggested that he send his union members into a demonstration or show some political support. He generally does.

The government also puts union men on federal payrolls. There are only three or four nationally prominent labor chiefs who have eschewed such subtle forms of capture. The union chiefs who take such jobs (sometimes as many as three or four different ones at the same time) are called "pelegos"—fat cats, buffers between the government and the workers.

THE PELEGOS (named after a sheepskin which is put between the saddle and the bare back of a horse) work in the labor courts or social service ministries. If they don't go along, they are removed—from their official jobs and their union posts as well.

Many of these are top Communist activists.

Yet, President Goulart's own labor minister can, especially under Article 554 of the Brazilian labor code, Consolidation of labor Law, 1960, take control of a union, appoint a deputy to administer the union, supervise elections of new officers, appoint the chairman of union election meetings, draft a new constitution and bylaws or interpret the old constitution and bylaws.

The union can be administered by the government at all levels, city, state and national.

With such power in his hands, President Goulart nonetheless has permitted the Communists to take control of huge sections of the Brazilian labor movement, which has 3½ million members. Where the Communists have not been able to oust legitimate union chiefs, the Communists have been permitted to set up utterly illegal, unrepresentative, spurious city, state and national high commands.

Though these commands are banned by law, President Goulart has encouraged and dealt with them to the detriment of anti-Communists. WHY?

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My girl friend and I found an ideal apartment near the store where we both work. The rent is reasonable and we love it here.

The other night when I plugged in the electric iron all the lights went out in the back part of the house. I knew I had blown a fuse.

So I rapped on the landlord's door and asked him if he would help me out. He said I'd have to come down to the basement with him and hold the flashlight while he replaced the fuse.

Well, the old geezer made a pass at me. Can you imagine such a thing with his own wife sitting upstairs in their living room I told him if he ever tried anything funny again I'd brain him.

This morning there was a note in our mailbox saying the rent is going up $30 next month. We can't pay more and we hate to move. Please tell us what to do about this rotten situation. — WE LIKE IT HERE.

Dear Here: Tell the old lecher you suspect his little note was all in fun but that if he was serious you will happily discuss the increase with his wife.

Community Dresser

Dear Ann: I have a problem with my 13-year-old daughter. She always has somebody else's clothes on. I would hate to tell you the amount of money I spend on that girl's outfits, not to mention the hours of shopping for just the right dresses, skirts, blouse, sweater and slacks. Then I never see them on her.

There are four girls in her little circle and they all enjoy wearing one another's things much more than their own. I want to put a stop to it. My husband says it's not that important. What do you say?—V.L.

DEAR V.L.: Skip It. This is a phase she'll outgrow. Your husband is right—don't make an issue of it.

Confidentially

TO IN A FIX: Yes, you are. If you both lied about your ages and you were not of legal age, your parents can indeed have the marriage annulled.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LET'S EXPLORE OHIO

The best reviewing stand for the parade of history through Ohio might well have been the site of Fort Laurens at the present quiet little town of Bolivar.

Here could have been seen the passage of Indian war parties going both north and south and east and west along the main trails through the forests before the coming of the white man. Marching out from Ft. Pitt, Gen. Washington's soldiers established Ft. Laurens as the only Revolutionary War military outpost in the Ohio Country to stand guard against the British from Detroit.

In a cemetery at Ft. Laurens, now a state park with picnic shelter house and other facilities, are the graves of some of these same soldiers, killed in fights with the Indians. The outline of the fort is marked with white stone posts today.

Back in 1825 the Ohio Canal was dug with the course of the waterway (shown above) winding behind the old fort location. Because the United States government granted some 1,100,351 acres of land for the use of Ohio's canal system, soldiers were transported free during the Mexican War, the Civil War and the Spanish-American War. Many of these soldiers on canal boats passed this reviewing stand of history.

At the close of the Indian Wars on the western frontier, following Gen. Anthony Wayne's treaty with the Indians meeting at Ft. Greenville, Ft. Laurens was one of the landmarks establishing the Gen. Wayne Treaty Line which divided the lands open for settlement by pioneers from the Indian lands to the north. This Treaty Line runs along the old Ohio Canal for some distance west of present-day Bolivar and on westward to Ft. Loraine, another early landmark in Shelby County.

The Ohio Canal from Cleveland to Portsmouth was 308 miles long. It had 146 lift locks and five guard locks. The remains of many of these can be found today by motorist travelers as they seek out the byways along the canal route.

The Doctor Says

Permissiveness Not Submissiveness

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Dr. Brandstadt children and praise them for accomplishments without expecting a level of attainment beyond the child's capacity.

Ever since Freud described the evil consequences of childhood frustrations, parents have been urged to be less authoritarian and more permissive in their attitudes toward their children. Dr. Leo Kanner, the eminent child psychiatrist, points out that in the constructive sense, permissiveness is a controlling but kindly way of permitting a child to be himself and to exercise his own will without letting him encroach on the rights of others.

However, when parents substitute submissiveness for this kind of permissiveness everyone is the loser.

IF, FOR EXAMPLE, the child is allowed to strike his parents or others or to indulge in temper tantrums he will find as soon as he enters school or kindergarten that the submissiveness of his parents is not shared by the rest of the community.

At this point his frustrations will begin in earnest and he will come in time to blame his parents, and rightly so, for his failure to get along. But by then it may be too late for him to completely change his personality.

One important aspect of permissiveness is to allow the child to develop at his own rate without driving him toward perfection at too early an age. Expecting too much too soon can only lead to disappointment and discouragement.

THERE IS ALSO THE less obvious necessity of allowing a child to be himself in spite of any physical handicap he may have.

Whether it be a very prominent birth mark or an ugly scar acquired sometime after his birth, acceptance by the parents without undue emphasis will help the child to accept what can't be changed and will minimize emotional conflicts over it.

Wise parents have always known this instinctively. Those who have not known it but have learned it well have been amply rewarded in seeing the self-confident unfolding of the personality of their child.

Q—What diseases is a new born baby immune to and how long does this immunity last?

A—Assuming that the mother was immune to measles, smallpox, mumps, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough chicken pox and poliomyelitis there will be a varying amount of antibodies against these diseases in the blood of the newborn but they will have disappeared within three to six months. That is why immunizations against the diseases for which such immunization is available should be given before the end of the first year.

Armstrong-Marshall Vows to Be Heard

Open church will be observed at the wedding of Miss Margory Ann Armstrong of RD 3, Lisbon, to Arthur R. Marshall of Bloomfield, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the sanctuary of the Boyce Methodist Church of East Liverpool. A reception in the church social room will immediately follow the ceremony.

AUTO CRASH FATAL

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A two-car collision on Tallmadge Parkway Monday night killed Mrs. Mary Wallace, 47, of West Richfield. Her 17-year-old son, Glenn, and the driver of the other car were hospitalized.

Mrs. C. James Lehwald

Susan Mosher Bride of Carl James Lehwald, Jr.

Rev. William S. Longworth officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Susan Jean Mosher and Carl James Lehwald Jr., at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the chapel of the First Methodist Church.

Miss Mosher is the daughter of Mrs. Bonita Mosher of E. 8th St., and C. A. Mosher of Fort Myers, Fla. Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Lehwald are the parents of the bridegroom.

Vases of white gladioli and seven-branch cathedral candelabra decorated the altar. Miss Patricia Roof was soloist and nuptial melodies were presented by Homer Taylor.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Charles Mosher, who with her mother gave her in marriage, the bride wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace with long sleeves and Sabrina neckline on the molded bodice. Three tiers of lace fashioned the skirt. A bouffant shoulder length veil of illusion was held by a crown of starched matching lace and pearls, and she carried her mother's white Eastern Star Bible topped with a white orchid with streamers of feathered carnations and Stephanotis.

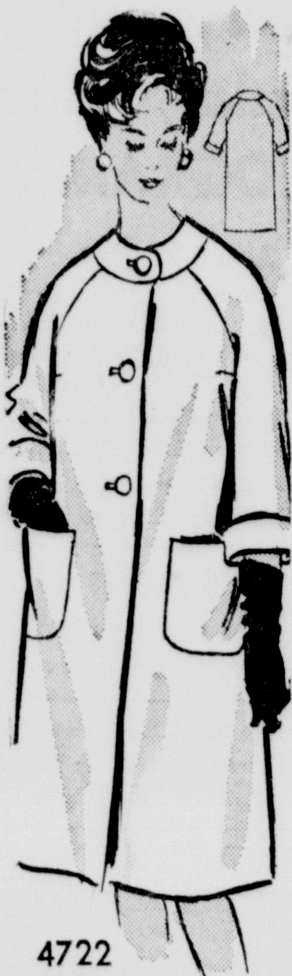

Miss Carol Williams of Massillon served her cousin as maid of honor and wore a white nylon dotted Swiss gown with bouffant skirt, cap sleeves and scoop neckline. She carried an arrangement of pink roses and lavender and pink pompons, and her headpiece was a halo hat with face veil.

Kimberly Mosher, small sister of the bride, was flower girl in a dress of white silk organza with lace inserts and carried a basket of roses and pompons.

The bride will graduate in September from the Youngstown Hospital School of Nursing, and the bridegroom will resume his studies as a senior in the Ohio State pre-medical school. He attended the University of Illinois where he was affiliated with Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

Dr. and Mrs. Lehwald were hosts at the rehearsal party Friday evening at their home and also entertained members of the wedding party and immediate families at a buffet dinner in Timberlakes following the wedding.

Fei, Fi, Fo, Fum...

I smell the days of college fun!

Many of you will be going off to school soon. Remember... Mother won't be there to wash and iron those blouses, sweaters and dresses, or to press your skirts and sew on buttons. Neither will she be able to squeeze more money from her already deflated budget to buy you unnecessary things later.

With that day approaching you will have to learn to live on a budget. You will have to do your own laundry and sewing and keep house for yourself.

Here are a few things to keep in mind before spending your money in the wrong places: Before making any purchases, lay all of your clothes out on the bed. (Bet you will have so many that some will have to hang over the door.) With these all in one pile you will be surprised at how many things you already have...

Think you need a complete new wardrobe? That just isn't so. Remember that most of the girls at college never have seen your wardrobe before and these clothes will be new to them.

HEMS WILL need to be altered. If you don't know how... now is the time to have Mother show you. LEARN. When you get there, you will have to do it yourself.

Dormitory rooms aren't like Mother's house. Closets are small! If you take too many clothes you can't put the extras in Mother's or Dad's closet. And the quickest way to lose the friendship of your roommate is to use her closet space.

After you have gone through all your clothes, have Mother show you how to wash and iron each garment. Do this yourself so you will know.

Many are made of different fabrics and cannot be put in washing machines, they must be done by hand. Some should be wears skirts and sweaters doesn't mean they will be the style or trend where you are going.

All college towns have little inexpensive dress shops (and men's shops) and they specialize in local fashions. Save some of your budget for that precious little dress you will just "have-to-have-or-die," a few months from now.

DEAR HELOISE: When cutting margarine or butter, did you know that you can tear off a small piece of wax paper, place it over the edge of your paring knife and then cut the butter and it will not stick to the knife, but will divide beautifully? Try it.

DEAR HELOISE: I make our own doughnuts. Sometimes I use a doughnut recipe and sometimes I use canned biscuits by cutting them with scissors.

Recently I learned a new trick. I put some whole cloves in the fat in my deep fry before frying them. It gives them quite a different flavor and the children love them.

30 Days to Better Grades

Right Point Of View For Each Course Important

By The Reading Laboratory
We've talked about the attitudes you should carry with you to school. The first attitude boils down to this: while you're in school, try to get the most out of it; try to look upon school as an agency for developing your own outlook on life and as a means by which you can begin to understand your own world better. You don't have to suffer through school! With the right attitude, you can enjoy it.

A constructive attitude is a big step toward becoming a better student, but you also have to develop the right point of view for each course you take. For each course, ask yourself the question, "What is the course trying to accomplish?" and, then, as the year progresses, "Are my teacher and I accomplishing it?"

TO HELP YOU GET started, we'll take a look at some individual courses to see how they work and what they try to do.

History is a good starting point. It is not, as many students think, a big and boring obituary. History is a growth and decay process. And it has a pattern; certain events cause other events. The effects of the Renaissance, for instance, are still being felt.

Can you name some of them?)

So before you start to memorize names and dates, look for the patterns and the causes; try to relate one period of history to the next; try to see why events had to happen as they did. Use your knowledge of history when you look at current events, too. History is being made every day, and the better you understand what is happening.

BIOLOGY REQUIRES A different approach. In biology, after you look into the basic properties of living things, you'll classify living things. Most of the work you'll do in biology will be simply classification. The trick is to keep a broad outline of the major classes in mind at all times. As you encounter each type of plant or animal, understand why it is classified as it is. Would you classify it the same way?

But physics doesn't classify; it builds. If you understand what a molecule is, you'll have no trouble understanding heat, or the expansion of gases, or motion. You can't break up physics into tiny segments. You'll have to use each chapter of physics to understand each subsequent chapter.

OF ALL SUBJECTS, physics might strike closest to home, for in an age when so much of your life depends on science, some understanding of science is essential for the intelligent person.

These are just a few examples of how to develop a point of view on each course. The student who doesn't have a solid point of view is likely to approach each course fact by fact and end up hopelessly confused. He never sees the big picture. But for yourself, always ask, "What is the course trying to accomplish?" and "Are my teacher and I accomplishing it?"

However, no one can get through school simply by studying courses; you also have to study teachers.

(NEXT: How to study a teacher.)

Alvis Blasts 2 Home Runs As Indians Triumph 8-3

Tribe Climbs Back Into 5th

Azcue Clouts 11th Play Yankees Next

NEW YORK (AP) — With two swings of his bat, Cleveland third baseman Max Alvis has taken over the club lead in home runs (16) and runs-batted-in (49) and led the Indians back into fifth place.

Alvis was the big gun at Boston Monday night in the Indians' 8-3 victory over the Red Sox, his two homers driving in six runs.

The Tribe starts a four-game set with the New York Yankees tonight. Dick Donovan (8-10), who has a string of 20 scoreless innings, faces Whitey Ford (17-6).

Joe Azcue blasted his 11th homer of the year—his third in two days. He also had a double and a single.

Pete Ramos won his sixth game against five defeats and pitched his first complete game of the year in 15 starts. Two home runs by Dick Stuart and one by Frank Malzone were the only lapses by Ramos, who gave up nine hits and struck out eight.

Stuart's first shot, in the second inning, was an inside - the - park homer — rare in Fenway Park, ball hit the wall just above the outstretched glove of Vic Davalillo in left center and bounced toward the left field foul line. Left-fielder John Romano chased it and fired to Alvis, whose throw was too wide and late to get the sliding Stuart.

Malzone's homer in the seventh and Stuart's second in the ninth both cleared the left field net.

Boston pitcher Arnold Earley gave up singles to Davalillo and Joe Adcock in the fourth before Alvis walloped a pitch over the left field fence. One out later, Azcue belted a tremendous homer into the seats in center.

Alvis slammed his second homer off Earley in the fifth inning after Larry Brown and Adcock walked.

The final Cleveland run came in the eighth when Alvis walked and Willie Kirkland and Azcue singled.

Palmer, Cupit, Rodgers Meet Today In Akron Golf Playoff

By JOE MOOSHIL

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer, Jacky Cupit and Phil Rodgers battle in an 18-hole playoff at the Firestone Country Club course today for the fourth and final berth in next month's World Series of Golf.

The winner of the playoff will join U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, British Open winner Bob Charles and Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus in the Sept. 7-8 World Series, to be played over Firestone's 7,165-yards, which demand a par of 35-35-70.

Nicklaus' victories in the Masters and PGA left one spot open in the series which first was played last year at Firestone, where Nicklaus defeated Palmer and Gary Player for the top prize of $50,000 in the $75,000 jackpot.

This year the winner again receives $50,000, the runnerup $15,000 and the also-rans $5,000 each.

Palmer is the favorite in the playoff—not only because of his stature as one of the all-time greats, but also because of his past performances on the Firestone course, where the American Golf Classic also is played.

Last year he tied the course record of 65 and his 72-hole total of 276 to win the American Classic in 1962 is unmatched.

Cupit has had only one sub-par round at Firestone—a 69 in the 1961 American Classic — while Rodgers has played eight rounds on the course, failing to match

Palkovich Insurance Still In State Event

Salem Invitational Softball Tournament Begins Saturday

Youngstown Palkovic Insurance team, which will compete in the seventh annual Salem Invitational Softball Tournament starting this weekend at Kelley Field, are now in the semi-finals of the state tourney at Ashland.

The Youngstown city, Mahoning County, district and regional champs, knocked off Dayton 2-1 Sunday to remain unbeaten in state competition. Chuck Biddle does the hurling for the unit.

Powerful Angies Pizza of Akron, another entry, has a record of 50 victories and 15 losses. Last year's state champs, eliminated at Ashland Sunday 3-0 by Lima, has traveled 2,000 miles this season to face teams in Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio.

Two of the club's losses were to the Aurora Sealmasters, the 1961 world softball champions. Standout pitcher for Angies is "Rip" Fugate, who has posted a 20-3 mark this year. He will be at Kelley Field Saturday when the Akron Unit plays at 8:15 p.m.

Donato, Miller Set For 3-Day Program

2 Pro Bowlers To Give Clinic, Exhibitions At Timberlanes

Joe Donato and Jessie Miller, professional bowlers, will head a clinic and compete in exhibitions at the Timberlanes Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

In Women's International Bowling Congress Tournament action in 1962, Miss Miller set the second highest single game mark — 290 — in the history of the event.

During that event, she established the fourth highest series ever rolled — 707 — was runner-up with Martha Morgan in doubles competition and placed third in all - events with 1,792 pins, which gave her a 199 average for the tourney.

She was winner in the BPAA all-star eliminations in Buffalo, N. Y., last year, and reached the finals in two other professional women's association tourneys. She is a member of the PWBA.

Donato has three sanctioned 300 games, one of them rolled on television. He has a lifetime average of 202 and posted a 205 mark last season.

He employs a four and a half step delivery and his ball is a semi-roller. He is a member of the American Machine and Foundry Staff of Champions squad.

A clinic will be held Thursday from 9 a.m. until noon. On Saturday, juniors and bantams will receive instruction from 9 a.m. until noon.

Friday, Salem's top woman knegler will face Miss Miller in an exhibition, and Donato will take on the top man on Saturday. If either of the local bowlers defeats the pros, he or she will be given a $50 savings bond.

A qualifying tourney is being held at Timberlanes to determine the persons who will meet the pros in the exhibition matches.

Salem Legion Blanks East Liverpool 7-0

Salem's strong American Legion baseball team avenged its only League loss of the season by knocking off East Liverpool 7-0 at Centennial Park Sunday.

Don Kendrick tossed a three-hitter to give the Salem unit its 16th victory in 17 starts in county competition.

With two down in the first inning, a single by Jim Morrison and a double by Hilton Moffett gave the winners a 1-0 lead.

The loop champs sewed it up in the fourth with a three-run rally on a walk, single by Rick Sweetzer and doubles by Wayne Washington and Kendrick.

"Butch" Nolan hit a double in the second, Jack Hissom singled in the third and John Hasenstab in the fourth for the losers' only hits.

Kendrick, who struck out six and walked five, led the winners with two doubles and a single.

Cards Begin Showdown Series With LA Tonight; Last Won NL Pennant In 1946

Baseball roundup Spts

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, who last won a pennant when Stan Musial was a kid of 25, move into Los Angeles tonight for a showdown struggle with the National League-leading Dodgers after finishing off San Francisco with two blasts, a bloop and a bobble.

Seeking their first flag since 1946, in what would be a fitting tribute to the retiring Musial, the Cardinals took the first step Monday, moving into second place with an 8-7 victory over the Giants triggered by Ken Boyer's pair of two-run homers.

Boyer's shots in the seventh and ninth innings kept the Cardinals in contention in a wild game that ended with Julian Javier racing home from first base with the winning run in the last of the ninth as Felipe Alou bobbled Tim McCarter's bloop single.

It left the Cardinals 5½ games behind the Dodgers and dropped the Giants 6½ back—1½ games in front of surging Philadelphia. The Phillies beat the New York Mets 1-0 behind Dennis Bennett's five-hitter for their eighth straight victory.

In the only other game scheduled in either league, Cleveland used a pair of three-run homers by rookie Max Alvis in consecutive trips to wallop Boston 8-3.

The Cardinals, are expected to send either young Ray Sadecki or veteran Lew Burdette against the Dodgers' Johnny Podres tonight. St. Louis completed a sweep of the three-game set with the Giants in a game held up by fog and rain for 2½ hours. Then the teams belted each other around until the decisive ninth.

Trailing 5-4, the Giants tied the score in their half on a run-scoring single by Willie Mays and a two-run triple by Alou, who tagged a 3-0 pitch with two out by ancient Sam (Toothpick) Jones.

In the bottom half of the inning, Bill White walked and Boyer hit his 17th homer. Jack Fisher replaced Billy Hoelt on the mound and got the next two men before Javier singled.

McCarver then arched a looping fly that fell in right center and when Alou bobbled the ball, Javier raced home.

Bennett, bringing his record to 6-2, outdueling Galen Cisco, 7-13. The game's only run came in the second inning on consecutive singles by Don Demeter, Clay Dalrymple and Bobby Wine. Bennett was in trouble only in the seventh when the Mets had runners on second and third with two out. He got out of it by striking out Tim Harkness.

Powder Puff Gains In Flying B Loop

Powder Puff picked up the most ground during loop action as it romped to a 12-0 victory in the Friday Division of the Flying B Golf League recently. Flying B chalked up an 11-1 decision in Thursday's bracket.

Powder Puff moved up from fourth to second and Flying B from third to second in their respective loops. Superior Wall Paper 110½ and Shamrock Lanes (111) lead the two loops.

Penn Grill (96) slipped from second place into a two-way tie for third with Lincoln Machine in Friday's league. Duquesne, second last week in Thursday's loop, dropped to fourth with 101, and Aid Budget is now third with 106.

Ralph Knepper of Corso's Wine took medalist honors with a 35. Demps Balsley of Penn Grill carded a 37, while 38s were posted by Flick Enricken of Franklin Market, "Hap" Harrigan of Lincoln Machine and Bob Schaefer of Penn Grill. Ben Migliarini of Powder Puff fired a 39.

Steve Zalko of Aid Budget led Thursday's unit with a 37. Sarge Ware of Shamrock Lanes, John Pozniko of Salem Tool and Floyd Allen of Blatz shot 39s.

Signs With NBA Cincy Team

Lucas Says He Hopes He Can Help Royals

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I only hope I can help Oscar and the Royals," says Jerry Lucas. "Cincinnati is a coming team in the NBA."

The 6-foot-8 former All-America at Ohio State signed Monday to play with Cincinnati's Royals of the National Basketball Association, the team that held his draft rights but couldn't attract his interest.

Lucas said: "Basketball is my life and I just had a yearning to get back."

Lucas was out of action last season after shunning the Royals to take up with the onetime Cleveland Pipers of the rival American Basketball League. The league collapsed.

There was no indication of the money value of his contract with Warren Hensel, Cincinnati businessman. Hensel has been dicker to purchase the Royals since last March, but has yet to complete the deal.

"This is a great day for the Royals," said Hensel, a minority team stockholder. "We've been trying to get him a long time. And he just could make us a winner."

Hensel took over as the Royals rounded into a power in the NBA under the lead of All-America Oscar Robertson.

Lucas and Robertson have worked together before. They were teammates on the 1960 U.S.

Olympic squad. Lucas started playing basketball as a sixth grader in Middletown, about 35 miles north of Cincinnati. He scored at a 31 points-per-game clip in high school and was the brightest star ever put out by a home town generally considered a basketball center in Ohio.

Paul Walker, his high school coach, said Monday night, "He'll do Cincinnati a lot of good and it'll do Jerry a lot of good, too. 'I don't think his year away from professional basketball is going to hurt him. He's been practicing all year and he looks in good shape to me.'"

Lucas led Middletown to two Ohio high school championships. He was three times an All-American at Ohio State where he won three Big Ten and one NCAA champion teams.

Middletown residents said the Royals could expect more fans from that city with Lucas playing.

"Jerry made history here. Everybody knows him and likes him, except possibly to make it a sang, an old hometown friend of Lucas."

Lucas said he did not expect his non-playing year to hamper him, except possibly to make it a bit longer for him to get in shape. He said he had been working special exercises for six months to strengthen his knees, in good shape at 235 pounds.

Expect 900 Marksmen To Compete

5 Divisions To Be Decided Today In Vandalia Trapshoot

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — The little fellows get their big chance today at the 6th Grand American Trapshoot.

The day's program, expected to attract some 900 marksmen, calls for the class championships in five divisions to be decided. Each entrant fires against only those of comparable ability, and the same amount of prize money goes to each class. The divisions range from Class AA, made up of shooters who average 96.5 kills in 100 shots, down to the Class D novices who break fewer than 88 of 100.

Also on tap is some unfinished business from Monday's rain-soaked opening 200-target 16-yard event. Seven of the 625 entrants broke the entire 200, but a shoot-off was delayed until today because of the heavy downpour.

Monday's winners will be decided on performances in today's 200-target race. The men's and junior divisions of the Champion-of-Champions for state titleholders also were held over due to three way deadlocks.

National champions named in Monday's 200-target event were men's veteran—Adolph L. Nelson, 77, Detroit, 99 of 100; women's veteran—Mrs. Van N. Marker, Versailles, Ohio, 99 of 100; husband-wife — Bardon and Eulalie Higgins, Duluth, Minn., 387 of 400; father-son—Bardon and Jim Higgins, Duluth, 398 of 400; brother-brother—Dave and Ned Burleg, Wapakoneta, Ohio, 396 of 400.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

Fair time is here. This week it's our own Columbiana County Fair at Lisbon, then Canfield and then that big Columbiana Street Fair.

We will be at the Columbiana Street Fair again in the Merchants tent. Don't know what we are going to have yet but we will work up something for you.

When you visit the fairs and find yourself a little off schedule remember the Country Store is open 19 hours daily to serve you. We open at 6 in the morning and close at 1 the next morning.

Deaths Funerals

Janet Julian

Janet Yvonne Julian, two-year-old daughter of Robert and Jaxie Greene Julian of 518 W. 8th St., died this morning at her home. She had been ill since birth.

Born in Salem June 1, 1961, she was a member of St. Paul's Catholic Church.

Besides her parents she is survived by a sister, Joan Marie, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Julian of Salem, Mrs. Frederick Stanton of Columbus, and Nathan J. Greene, also of Columbus.

Private services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday when the Mass of the Angels will be sung at St. Paul's Church. Rev. J. Richard Gaffney will officiate. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery.

There will be no calling hours.

Mrs. John Wagners

Mrs. Emma Wagners, 78, died of a heart ailment in her sleep Sunday night at the home of her son, Irwin Wagners of RD 4, Salem, with whom she made her home.

Born in Johannesburg, South Africa, Jan. 5, 1885, she was the daughter of Hans and Caroline Petersen Haahjem and came to this country from Norway in 1922. She lived in Brooklyn, N.Y., until 1961 when she came to Salem. Her husband, John Wagners, died in 1943.

Mrs. Wagners is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bedhil Svendsen of Shellburne Falls, Mass., and Mrs. Astrid Stevens of Aalesund, Norway; two sons, George of Bergen, Norway, and Irwin; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Marthinussen of Johannesburg; seven grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Wagners home on Route 165. Rev. George Keister, pastor emeritus of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Wagners home Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The Afternoon Guild of the church directed by Mrs. Scott McCorkhill, and the Evening Guild, with Mrs. Harry Ellis in charge, provided refreshments.

Mrs. L. W. Sanders, Mrs. Donald Dusenberry and Mrs. Ralph Zimmerman also assisted.

Louis Raymond, chairman of North Columbiana Red Cross Bloodmobile, announced that the Bloodmobile will visit Lisbon in September and the next collection made in Salem will be Oct. 24.

Miners

mation to the two men. A new speaker was lowered into the mine.

Suffered Hip Injury
Fellin reported that Bova was about 25 feet from him and Throne. He said he talked to Bova at intervals and that Bova apparently had suffered a hip injury. Later he lost contact with Bova and thought that perhaps Bova went to sleep or tried to change his location.

Fellin and Throne tried to clear away debris to reach Bova but were unsuccessful. Throughout the day and night, Fellin could be heard calling, "Lou, Lou."

Fellin, asked what he thought happened to Bova, replied: "I don't know. I guess he's on the other side."

Bova's wife, Eva, 32, went to the mine scene Monday. She said: "No one could convince me he wasn't alive. I never gave up. The miracle I prayed for is coming true."

Rescue workers were foiled Monday night in trying to establish a separate lifeline hole to Bova when the drill bit went past the depth where Bova was believed to be. Within an hour they started again at a new location and got to 90 feet before stopping temporarily. It took 22 hours to drill the original six-inch hole to Fellin and Throne.

Fellin and Throne cautioned rescuers to drill slowly to prevent a recurrence of the cave-in.

The mood at the mine, located at Shepton, about nine miles from Hazleton and 80 miles northwest of Philadelphia, differed from that of Sunday night when it was discovered the miners were still alive.

The jubilation that had been there Sunday night and early Monday was gone. In its place was a grim determination to get the men out safely. Relatives and friends continued their vigil.

Fellin said "If you don't believe in God, go through a thing like this. Then you'll know there's a God."

Mr. and Mrs. Arfman, who have operated the Cupola Nursing Home in Leetonia since 1950, said the Salem installation will be a skilled nursing care unit for long-term chronically ill and convalescent patients of any age.

Atty. Arfman, who also is Northeast County court judge, said registered nurses will supervise all nursing care given by licensed nurses and practical nurses. A dietitian will supervise preparation of all meals.

The interior decor of the nursing home will be in Early American.

Recreational programs, organized activities and occupational therapy round out the plans for the home.

George D. Worth Legion Post Gets National Citation

George D. Worth Post 574 of the American Legion, housed at Lake Placencia, has been cited by the national organization "in recognition of its outstanding service to the children and youth of the communities it serves," Dean Mercer, post commander, announced today.

Signed by James E. Powers, national commander, and Elmer Fuhrhop, state child welfare chairman, the citation from American Legion National Headquarters in Indianapolis was presented to Post 574 by Gail Sharpnack, post child welfare chairman, at the recent post meeting.

Commander Mercer credits the efforts of the entire group of officers and active members of the organization of the award. "Child welfare is one of the Legion's basic programs," he explained, "and we are proud that our efforts have been honored with this citation from the national organization."

The post was awarded the citation on the basis of its report for the 12-month period ending on May 31.

Among the activities and programs which earned the recognition for the post were: Supporting baseball teams, teen dances, school activities and helping needy children of the communities.

Man Grabs Money From Woman, Flees

LISBON — Lisbon police are looking for a professed electrical contractor who grabbed $100 from a W. Washington St. woman and fled Monday.

Police reported the woman, identified only as Mrs. Twist, said the man had gained entrance to her home on the pretext of checking the wiring system. After being told the wiring needed repairs, the woman produced the money which the man snatched from her hand and fled.

A neighbor woman noticed the man running from the house at about 6:30 p.m. and provided police with a description.

With The Patients

The condition of Tom Bauman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bauman of 605 N. Howard Ave., who is a patient at South Side Hospital in Youngstown with injuries he received in a traffic accident Sunday is described as "slightly improved." He is not allowed visitors.

Lewis Morris Jr., 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Morris of RD 3, Lisbon, is in fairly good condition in Salem City Hospital where he was admitted at 9:10 p.m. Monday for treatment of a laceration of the left hand received while playing at a strip mine.

Old Ironsides hasn't been out of Boston Harbor since 1934.

The departure of four staff members was acknowledged by the board. They include Starkey; Blaine Morton, former head coach and social studies teacher who will be assistant football coach and social studies teacher in East Liverpool; George Istvan, junior high social studies teacher and freshman coach, who will be coaching and teaching in Clairton, Pa.; and Mrs. Sarah Scullion who requested a year's leave of absence to teach in Cincinnati on the condition she may return to her teaching job here afterward. Mrs. Scullion is a primary teacher at Fourth St. School.

The motion to approve all personnel changes recommended by Supt. Smith was made by Gail Herron and seconded by Dr. Ralph Starbuck.

Church Classroom Approved

Atty. Bryce Kendall put forth a motion that the board pay a $70 monthly rental fee to the Baptist Church where elementary classes meet. The total for the nine-month school year consequently would total $630. Last year the board paid $705.37 for use of the church for classes. Atty. Kendall's motion was approved.

Milk Contract Let

Beverly Farms was the successful low bidder of four area companies, offering a price of 5.4 cents per half pint of homogenized milk with 3.5 percent or more butterfat. Purity Dairy and Superior Dairy, Inc. were equal in their bids of 5.5 cents a half pint, but the former's price was for 3.6 percent butterfat and the latter for 3.5 percent.

Isaly Dairy Co. offered the highest bid of 5.7 Greenish was present in behalf of about a dozen dairymen in Columbiana County, members of the Dairy-men's Cooperative Sales Association, who supply milk to Isaly's and two other major dairies.

Other representatives were present from Beverly Farms, Purity Dairy and Superior Dairy.

Mrs. Rachel Pandolph, school dietitian, earlier expressed her satisfaction with the products and services of Beverly Farms.

Before acting on personnel, the board with all members present but Robert Campbell, approved another bank loan of $75,000, chiefly to meet the Sept 15 payroll.

Meeting

held daily at 9:30 a.m., with Mrs. David Myton of Springfield in charge, while the Junior Church at 11 a.m. daily will be directed by Mrs. Ralph Blackburn of Columbus.

The meeting will continue through Sunday.

FIREMEN RESPOND TWICE

City firemen were called out twice within 12 hours last Monday and early Tuesday.

At 4:39 p.m. Monday a gasoline leak in the carburetor of a car owned by Ward Zellers of 821 E. State St. caused a minor fire and at 12:12 a.m. today firemen were called to investigate a gas leak at the Oscar Possilus residence at 340 W. State St.

Mishaps

across the highway went off the left side and overturned.

Speedsters Arrested
In two separate one-auto mishaps Monday afternoon, a Sebring motorist and one from the Lisbon area were cited for driving at speed excessive for conditions.

Sarah Locker, 38, of Sebring was arrested after her car rolled over at 3:50 p.m. on Route 62, seven-tenths of a mile west of Salem. The Lisbon patrol said she was going west when she tried to pass another vehicle. Cutting back into her lane too quickly Mrs. Locker lost control, went off the right side of the road, hit an embankment and overturned.

William Greathouse, 21, of RD 3 Lisbon, was also cited for traveling too fast on wet roads after he lost control of his car on a curve in Route 7 one mile north of Rogers, Monday at 4 p.m. The auto went off the road, rolled over and hit a dirt bank.

Two Salem motorists were uninjured in a collision Monday at 2 p.m. on Route 62, three miles west of Salem. Escaping injury were the drivers, Carol Stack, 16 of RD 1 and Joseph C. Uber, 39 of 690 W. Pershing St.

The patrol said both were going east when Miss Stack turning left into a private drive, was hit by Uber's car in the act of passing.

A Monday morning mishap at 6:45 ended in the arrest of Warren A. Wade, 21, of near Burgholz on a charge of unsafe auto equipment. Wade failed to stop for a stop sign on Route 172, about four miles west of New Garden, and plowed into an embankment.

At 3:20 p.m. Monday on Route 62, a mile east of Route 173, Oathier Wills, 56, of Orlando, Fla. clipped off a telephone pole with his auto which went out of control as he drove west.

Rains, drizzle and fog the past two days have converted district highways into a sleeping beauty trap for unwary motorists. More than half the dozen mishaps that occurred over the weekend up until early today were blamed on lack of caution by motorists driving on the slick pavement.

Sgt. E. W. Mallory of the Lisbon post of the State Highway Patrol said today that the unusual weather sequence in the past few days has set up an extremely dangerous pavement picture.

First, the high temperatures brought the tar and oil to the surface and there is no rough road aggregate which tires can easily grip, the patrol officer said. When rains began to fall on the smooth-as-ice tar, perfect conditions were set up for skidding.

Many motorists who generally use extreme caution on wintry, icy roads, purr merrily along as normal, summertime speeds despite the wet roads forgetting that they can be just as treacherous as freezing pavement, Mallory said. He suggests that motorists drop their speed down to at least 20 miles an hour below the limit in wet weather.

Patrolman Paul L. Grimes of the Canfield post, who has had experience in highway work, said roads "bleed" in hot weather and oil in the tar rises to top. "When rain falls, this makes conditions as slippery as a greased skillet," he declared.

Old County Home Site May Yield Coal

CANFIELD — Ambrosia Coal & Construction Co. of Edinburg, Pa., is studying the possibility of buying the old County Home site on Herbert road for strip mining.

Carmen Ambrosia has proposed to county commissioners that his firm be allowed to test and drill the coal content on the land.

If tests are successful, he said, he would pay the county a tonnage royalty for coal mined and then restore the land, about 300 acres, according to Ohio strip mining restoration laws.

the Communist bloc at the expense of its contacts with the West.

But Tito is expected to sample the economic plums Khrushchev has dangled since the latest round of their reconciliation efforts resumed last year.

The Yugoslav leader has scrupulously avoided close economic ties with the Soviet bloc while at the same time desiring good relations with Moscow. But his maneuverability is being reduced gradually by jaundiced aid views being expressed in Washington and by the growing exclusiveness of European Common Market countries.

Observers believe Tito is most interested in an associate membership in the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance — COMECON — Soviet-Bloc counterpart of the Common Market.

Participation in COMECON's new international bank would facilitate Yugoslav spending of a large backlog of soft currency credits in neighboring Communist countries for the coal, iron ore and other raw materials essential to her.

The Soviets, however, have made it plain that the asking price for closer economic ties is modification of Belgrade's cherished independent line in domestic and international affairs.

Khrushchev's scheduled visit Thursday to earthquake-ravaged Skopje, was preceded by announcement Monday of a Soviet gift of a factory to build prefabricated houses for Skopje.

The gift, observers said, is an obvious attempt to counter the West's quick dispatch of aid to the city, including a field hospital flown in by the U.S. Air Force and U.S. gift of $50 million.

Tito has scheduled a 1,500 mile itinerary for Khrushchev, with leisurely stops for yachting, hunting, banquets and sightseeing.

ratified the treaty." "Gen. Power believed this is the only present deterrent to war," Stennis added.

Fulbright said his subcommittee received the opinions of eight other heads of unified commands and the "overwhelming majority" support the treaty.

Each of the service chiefs—LeMay: Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff; Adm David L. McDonald, Chief of Naval Operations, and Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine Corps commandant—testified they agreed on a statement of support for the treaty without pressure from civilian heads of the Pentagon.

Matter of Fact

Modern blue-black inks are made according to an ancient recipe: a soluble iron salt mixed with an extract of tannin. The first inks, dating back to about 2500 B.C. Egyptian and Chinese civilizations, were made of lamp-black ground with a solution of glue or gum and allowed to harden into sticks.

Iceland is one of the most volcanic regions of the earth. Volcanic activity has gone on continuously from the formation of the island during the Tertiary period. Although 107 volcanoes are known to exist in Iceland, none are constantly active.
